Role Model.

→ ANISAH BANU, MY MOTHER ←

In a world where bad things can happen to even the strongest people, my mother is a beautiful example of love, courage, and strength. At 47 years old, she has raised three girls on her own for twenty years and has handled the rough waters of being a single mother with grace and determination. But her impact goes far beyond her role as a mother. She has many qualities that I admire, especially her bravery, strength, friendliness, and unwavering care. Among her many great qualities, her ability to make delicious food stands out as a sign of how much she cares for and supports her family.

I've always seen my mother as a pillar of strength. She doesn't back down when things get tough, even though life has thrown her problems and hurdles. Her strength isn't just a trait; it's a lighthouse that shows me that with courage and drive, nothing is impossible.

The thing that moves me most about my mum is how brave she is in the face of life's challenges. She faces every day with a determination that is both admirable and inspiring. It makes me believe that I can also handle any problems that come my way.

Even though my mom is strong, she is also warm and friendly, which makes her a well-liked figure in our community. The amount of care she has for others is endless, and she shows it to everyone she meets, not just her family. The fact that she can make everyone feel important and welcome shows how kind and caring she is.

"I add on love as a ingredient when I cook for my family."

This particular quotes shows my mom's love through most in the kitchen. Even though she doesn't think of herself as a chef, her home-cooked meals are truly magical. As someone who loves food very much, I've had the pleasure of enjoying her works. Each dish shows how much she loves and cares for others.

My mom's food makes me miss home. Her culinary talents span across various cuisines, effortlessly mastering Malay, Indian, and Western dishes with equal flair. From the fragrant prawn biryani to the warm embrace of nasi lemak, and from the creamy curry mee, to the richness of Indian cuisines, it reminds me of the love that fills our hearts and our bellies.

To sum up, Anisah Banu is more than just a mother. She is a source of hope, strength, and comforting home-cooked meals. Her impact will live on in the hearts of all who were touched by her boundless love and strong spirit, not just her family and friends. She gives me hope, shows me the way, and is my biggest gift. And I will always be grateful for that.
